The Regional Alliance for Healthy Schools has been serving Washtenaw County and the surrounding community for 20 years. These centers serve as a “safety-net” for students and their families year-round. RAHS offers comprehensive physical and behavior health services to youth in the community ages 5-21, regardless of where they are enrolled in school or insurance status/ability to pay. Services include physical and mental health services, evidenced-based health prevention programs, on-site dental service coordination, vision exams and glasses, insurance enrollment, and tangible resources assistance.
